Release February 16-19th (Week 7-8)

“FOB”
By David Henry Hwang

A comedy set in 1980’s Torrance California, F.O.B. (fresh off the boat) is another of David Henry Hwang's explorations of what it is like to be Chinese in America. Grace and Dale are cousins, living in the Los Angeles area and attending college. Dale is fully American, second generation. Grace is first generation and holds the customs of China in higher regard. The arrival of Steve, an exchange student and a newcomer from China, fresh off the boat, forces them to confront a number of conflicting feelings about America, China and themselves.

Asian Pacific Student Program's Asian American Theatre Troupe Model Minority presents UCR's first ever Asian American student produced play. This quarter they will be showcasing David Henry Hwang's classic play about what it is like to be Chinese in America titled: F.O.B. (Fresh Off The Boat). In conjunction with the UCR Theatre, Film, and Digital Production Department and the Riverside Culver Center for the Arts, they will be showing F.O.B. two different nights in two different spaces. On February 24th at 8:00pm FOB will open on the University California Riverside Campus at Humanities 411 and on February 27th at 7:00pm FOB will close at the Atrium of the Riverside Culver Center for the Arts. Join us as we tackle Generational differences, immigration, and Chinese Opera with F.O.B.
